2019

Dump the Pump

Join the thousands of Southern Californians who'll find an alternative to driving on Dump the Pump Day, Thursday, June 20.

Taking bus or rail, hopping in a carpool, or biking or walking can get you where you're going, without needing to fill up the gas tank.

According to the Auto Club, the price of gas in California averages more than $4 a gallon—so even skipping the drive for a day can keep cash in your pocket.

For carpool matching, bus/rail routing, go to ridematch.info (Los Angeles, Orange, Ventura counties) or IECommuter.org (Riverside, San Bernardino), or call 511.

Get Charged Up

Need to charge your EV? Several apps are available that show EV charging locations. Some popular apps include PlugShare, Open Charge Map, ChargeHub, Chargemap—plus EV charging locations are available on Google Maps.

Blue Line Update

A four-month closure of the Metro Blue Line from the Compton Station to 7th/ Metro Center is now underway. A shorter closure of two Expo Line stations will start on June 22. Get details at metro.net/newblue.

Metrolink Welcomes Guest Conductors

Who is that on the train announcing your next stop? To connect with passengers in a fun way, Metrolink recently launched its Guest Conductor program. Local celebrities, elected officials and community leaders will provide recorded messages to greet Metrolink riders and give important information about the rail system and local stops.

First to take a swing at it is baseball legend Tim Salmon, who played 15 major league seasons with the Angels and was a crucial part of the Angels 2002 World Series run. You can hear him throughout baseball season onboard Metrolink's Orange County and 91/Perris Valley Line trains, as well as on service connecting to Angels Stadium.

Bike Beautifully

From mountain trails to dramatic ocean views, there are plenty of beautiful places to bike in Ventura County—Ventura County Transportation Commission (VCTC) highlights three in its blog at goventura.org/vctc-blog.
